A RECONSTRUCTION PLAN.

A plan has been arranged for the restoration of the ten States at present unrepresented in Congress, which meets the views of the loyal men from these States now at Washington, and on which a majority of the Reconstruction Committee are said to have agreed. As it differs from the plan of Mr. Stevens, the chairman of that Committee, it may be expected to encounter his opposition. It is said to have been drawn by Mr. Cutler, a Senator elect from Indiana, and the Southern Loyalists are said to believe that under its provisions they will be able to establish and maintain loyal State Governments.

It provides for the appointment of a Governor, removable by the President, with a Legislative Council of thirteen persons, none of whom shall have held any office under the so-called Confederate government, and that no persons except those of European descent shall participate in the offices of the government. It abrogates the ordinances of secession and all laws passed under the Confederate government. When Congress shall have ascertained that the people have returned to obedience under the Constitution and the laws of the United States, an enrollment of voters shall be made irrespective of race or color, and when an oath is taken purging them from all connection with the rebellion by a number of such voters equal to two-thirds of the number of voters in any State at the Presidential election of 1860, or, in any State where Presidential electors were not chosen in that year, two-thirds of the number of votes cast at the next previous election for the State Legislature, an election shall be ordered for a Convention to frame a State Constitution, and no person shall be ineligible to the Convention on account of race or color, provided he can read and write and take the oath of loyalty. No person belonging to the exiled class can hold any office until relieved from the disability by act of Congress. Slavery is prohibited, and all persons are declared equal before the law. The Constitutions are to be submitted to Congress, and if approved, the State shall then be admitted to the Union.

The Exclusiveness of Rome.

It will not affect the progress of events in America or in the world in the slightest degree, that Protestant worship has been excluded from Rome. It is, however, sad proof that the reign of bigotry is not less powerful in that seat of ecclesiastical empire than it was in the dark ages. The great movements of the world appear to have inspired neither warning or instruction within the walls of the eternal city. The point from which the ideas of republican freedom first emanated is the last to which they are to be permitted to return, and the conflict of thought which has been waged ever since the reformation thundered at the gates of Rome, has not penetrated the minds of the keepers of that stronghold of the Church, whilst it has shaken the grasp she held upon the opinions of men in all other places of her dominion.

No Protestant worship has been held in Rome except at the residence of foreign ambassadors until the Scotch Presbyterians established independent chapels during the French occupation. On the withdrawal of the French troops these Christians were warned to discontinue their services, and Cardinal Antonelli gave as a reason for the procedure that the Pope acted under duress whilst the French were there and that he was now about to act according to his views of duty; at the same time intimating that the same course would be pursued in reference to the American place of worship. Congress has promptly declined to make provision for continuing diplomatic relations with the Pope, on which commends itself not only on account of this recent proceeding, but for the fact that a Minister at Rome is a superfluous.

Protestant worship is now prohibited within the walls of the city, and the evident purpose of the Pope is to shut himself and his people within this narrow enclosure and, so far as possible, avoid contact with the outside world.

People of the Romish faith, on coming to this country, are treated on terms of equality with those of a diverse creed. They expect and desire toleration for themselves and for their worship. When applied to themselves, religious freedom is very good, and this Ninth would regard it an intolerable hardship should restriction be imposed on them from which Protestants are free. But when a similar privilege is had within his jurisdiction, the subjects are a very different aspect, and they who do not worship as he does may not worship at all.

This exclusiveness cannot endure. Moreover in Italy, just beyond the walls of Rome indicate the approaching end of the Inquisition, with which these Protestants were menaced, and on the prohibition of worship by all the inhabitants of that city according to the dictates of their own consciences. The decree which has closed these places of worship will probably have the tendency to hasten that consummation, as it will open the eyes of many who have never but today, to deprecate, and quicken the desire of freedom in the city itself.

SUFFRAGE IN CONNECTICUT.

In the resolutions adopted as a platform of principle by the recent State Republican Convention in Connecticut, there is cheering evidence of an advance of the public opinion of that State in the right direction. Only last year, a proposition to strike the word "white" from the constitution in its definition of voters was voted down by a large majority, and the fact that the Republican candidate for Governor was chosen at the same election indicates that many Republicans voted against the proposition. Now, however, the party adopts this as a portion of its platform and boldly goes before the people asking that it may be regarded as one of the bases of the approaching election for State officers.

There was statesmanship enough in the Convention to perceive that the general sentiment of the country has sufficiently advanced in the past year to demand the concession in the loyal States which is urged as a condition in the reconstruction of those lately in rebellion. In order to keep pace with this progress, Connecticut must adopt the principle which has already been in operation in the other New England States and has not in any of them been attended with any injurious results. Consistency demands that a State whose Senators and Representatives in Congress are required to stand on this platform in order to sustain their places in the Republican ranks, should herself be free from the disability which is deemed essential to the safe restoration of the States now out of the Union on account of their hostility to this provision. It would be much to the discredit of Connecticut to refuse to accede to this demand and it is desirable that the act of the Convention may be confirmed at the polls.

The President has made a report to the House in response to its inquiry concerning removals from office. Thanks to Mr. McCollum's moderation, which is to be judged of at its worth, the total number of removals under the Treasury dispensation during the Senate's recess was 190, out of a whole number of 273 officers whom the President may appoint. The War Department, merciless as it was, when it wills, has no formidable guillotine statistics to present, and it would appear that the trace of the Navy Department has been undisturbed by any excitement of removal. But in the Post Office Department, under Mr. Randall, have occurred 150 changes of a lively political character to offset 22 for the benefit of soldiers, and out of 222 in all. The President reasons that there are 2,434 officers in all the departments which are subject to his appointment; and it is his own showing that in not more than one-quarter of them have removals taken place. The upshot of it all is that Mr. Johnson wants credit for the number of sins he might have committed but did not. Let him have it.—Tribune.

THE QUEEN'S GOOD MANNERS.—A peer, when dining with Queen Victoria, was challenged by a royal duchess to take wine with her. He politely thanked her, but declined the compliment, stating that he never took wine. The duchess immediately turned to the Queen, and jocularly said: "Please your Majesty, hero is Lord ——, who declines to take wine at your Majesty's table." Every eye was turned to the Queen, and not a little curiosity was evinced as to the manner in which the abstainer would be dealt with. With a smiling and graceful expression the Queen replied: "There is no compulsion at my table." The story is communicated to a newspaper by one of the guests.

The bill regulating the power of the President's removal of office-holders did not pass the House Saturday as it came from the Senate. An important amendment was added which requires the Senate's consent to the removal of Cabinet Ministers. This amendment was inserted in the House on the general understanding that the President, under the same bill, could remove Secretary Stanton, or possibly might do it. The idea of eighty-two members who voted for the amendment was evidently in favor of retaining the Secretary in office.

A WARNING.—It has been discovered at the General Post Office in England that many persons in the United States are in the habit of sending over to this country sums of money wrapped in newspapers. In consequence of the existence of this practice American papers are now examined at St. Martin's-le-Grand. It is impossible to examine every paper; but selections are made at London and frequent seizures are the result.

A case involving the right to money found was decided in the Supreme Court, Boston, last week. William Morgan found a purse containing $80 in the depot of the Old Colony and Newport Railroad Corporation, and handed it to the ticket master to be advertised. No owner appearing in answer to the advertisement, Mr. Morgan claimed the money. The corporation refused on the ground that it was found on their premises, if it rested in any third party, it did in them. The court ordered a verdict for the finder.

The Richmond Times thinks Texas is getting to be about the only place fit for Southern gentlemen to live in. It eulogizes the Lone Star thus:—

"The negroes have not been demoralized by the Freedmen's Bureau and the school-maresses. The climate, too, of this magnificent State, although salubrious in the extreme, has been found unhealthy by the few struggling Yankee letter-writers and meddling neophytes who have ventured there in quest of mischief. They have, in many instances, when they have alighted upon it, been devoured by wolves and bears or scalped by the Comanches. The settlers in Texas have bitterly deplored these accidents, but they have not been able to prevent them."

January, 1857, is said to have been the coldest in 48 years, was followed by nearly the warmest February. It is stated by an exchange that the biggest snow storm ever occurred in New England was one hundred and fifty years ago—February 20 and 21, 1717. The snow then fell from 8 to 10 feet deep on a level.

Cards.—An invoker of Busbaces, Visiting and Wedding Cards, including several new styles, just received at the Daily News Office. Arrangements have been made for Engraving and Copy or Plate Printing at New York prices at short notice. Our job office is supplied with new type and prepared to do plain and fancy work in all its varieties.

MANHATTAN INTELLIGENCE.—The present has been a trying winter for those who go down to the sea in ships. Long voyages, and sometimes the loss of vessel, have been the lot of many. A vessel which left here a fortnight ago to-day, bound for Rockland, Me., was obliged to put into Tarpaulin Cove the same night, on account of ice in Vineyard Sound, and remained there until last Saturday, when she turned and sailed for New York, arriving the same day, where she still remains. There is another vessel here which has been six weeks from Boston, two of which have been passed here. She is bound for Philadelphia. Several others are here from Southern ports bound for New York which were blown off in the recent westerly gales.

TRAW.—The mild weather of the past two or three days has wrought a change in the face of nature, removing much of the snow and ice from the streets. Some of the streets, however, are in a bad condition, there being neither sleighing nor wheeling.

Nearly all the ice has gone from the harbor.

From the Quartermaster General's office we have received an instalment of the Roll of Honor giving the names of soldiers buried in New York, North Carolina and the North western States and Territories.

STEAMER FROM NEW YORK.—The Old Colony arrived here at half past 8 o'clock last evening. She encountered a large quantity of heavy ice at the head of the Sound.

MESSENGER.—The regular monthly meeting of the City Council occurs this evening.

A RELIC OF ANTIQUITY.

The gentleman who presented to us the ancient manuscript of which we give to our readers the following copy, states that it was found among the papers of a deceased connection of his family, noted for Tory sentiments up to his death, which occurred about twenty years ago. He was one of the prominent citizens of Newport, whose name still remains attached to property here, while there is no representative of the family bearing the name. The song was written, as will be seen in Boston when the Revolution had not yet taken the form of active hostilities, and the public mind was stirred by the eloquence of Otis and Adams. The references to the leaders of public opinion at that time are characterized by as much bitterness as can be found in the partisan writings of the present day. Some of the names and epithets have probably passed into oblivion, and it would be a matter of interesting antiquarian research to ascertain who are the persons designated by these titles. We give the orthography and punctuation as they are in the manuscript.

A SONG.

In Bedlam lofy numbers discordant yankees sing,
In twanging delitful ditties, God save our glorious King
Let them leave off their canting, and with doloron
Hav mercy, mercy, mercy, Lord on poor America.

2d. Their Patron Jim's Otis, that sage of great renown
Like Sheep he led the Rabbles of this sedition
Town

The Rostrum, then he mounted, when he did loudly bray
Defend, defend, defend my Boys, defend America.

3d. Next Independent Sam'y, a Scribler in this case,
As Easier to Britain, to George, and to his Laws
Whose rebel Ditties all the Sons of Liberty obey
The Fools, The Fools of Dap'd America.

4th. Their penman great Humane, is ready at their call
To sacrifice his Neighbors, the Ministry to Mall
On him they blindly pin their Faith, and great dependence lay
To purge, To purge, to purge, to purge America.

5th. The great Determinatus, that mockbird of the Thorong
With purple boogies the Power of his impetuous Tongue
Which tickles so the vulgar, they ready Hicongo pay
To this peating Oricle, the pride of Dap'd America.

6th. Great William, their Commander, that bally to Disgrace
That well known kite of Yorkshire, and Magazines of Lies
That truly Patriotic man that beitows night and day
Confound, confound the Knaves of Fleet's America.

7th. There's easy Master Accor, and many others more
As factions as the Gentry, we mentioned just before
Who strive with all their nimble might, Great Britain low to lay
And cry, Rebel, rebel, rebel America.

8th. The Curbach disobeidience, and crush each Marshon Lord
Let blish Grenadiers gird on their Conquering Swords
Bra Donald frae the Highlands, his meikle whang'er play
Adien, Adien, Adien, Adien to lost America.

PACIFIC RAILROAD SURVEY.—There is a revision of operations on the California connections with the Pacific Railroad. Fair progress is making with the grade of the direct road from Vallejo to Sacramento and Marysville, which is to connect San Francisco by the most direct route with the Central Pacific. The engineers of the Western Pacific which is to make the same connection with the Bay by the way of San Jose and Stockton, have recently established a survey from Sacramento to the Mokelumne river. The line strikes the northern borders of San Joaquin county, on Dry Creek nearly one mile below Liberty, and crossing that stream, turns in nearly a direct line for the Mokelumne, crossing at the town of Woodbridge. The total survey of the first thirty miles of the Southern Pacific Railroad, from San Jose to Gilroy, has been completed.
